VT AJ Bell Cautious Q1 2020 Report

As of 31/03/2020

Commentary

This quarter saw the Cautious fund post a negative return, with financial markets hit hard by the global spread of coronavirus. As the severity of the virus became clearer and governments began to act, previously vibrant economies around the world came to a standstill. Businesses and citizens were forced into closure and lockdown to slow the virus's spread and impact. In this unprecedented environment, with businesses unable to trade and no end date in sight, risk-averse investors sold financial assets indiscriminately, leading to some of the sharpest falls seen in financial market history.

The Cautious fund invests mostly in defensive assets such as bonds, which typically hold steadier than shares during periods of uncertainty. But the severity and extent of the market sell-off triggered a flight to cash – leading to falls across the quarter for stocks, bonds and property assets.

As we approached the end of March, coordinated action from central banks and governments boosted sentiment, helping markets recover some earlier losses. Over the previous calendar year, 2019, the fund returned 10.3%. However, the first 3 months of this year was a challenging quarter, which saw this fund post a total return of -6.0%, taking back some of the gains made last year.
